Getting Prepared Data

Data for this report was, for the first time, provided by the Minnesota Statewide Longitudinal Education Data system (SLEDS), managed jointly by the Minnesota Office of Higher Education (OHE), Minnesota Departments of Education (MDE) and Employment and Economic Development (DEED). SLEDS links student data from pre-kindergarten through completion of college and into the workforce to enable educators and policymakers to gauge the effectiveness of programs and design targeted improvement strategies.

Previous reports were limited to information about public high school graduates enrolled in developmental courses only at public institutions - Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU) or the University of Minnesota. Getting Prepared 2014 includes new data on enrollments at Minnesota private colleges and out-of-state college enrollments and additional student demographic and high school academic performance data. Linking individual student level data on Minnesota public high school graduates from 2005 to 2012 with fall term Minnesota Office of Higher Education college enrollment data and full year enrollment data from the National Student Clearinghouse enabled the ability to provide additional data.

High school enrollment and graduate data included 474,000 public high school graduates records from 2005 to 2012. Graduates are defined as a student with a status end code of “8” or “9” in the specified year. The data used for Getting Prepared analyzed college enrollment data for high school students based on the student’s “Status End” code at a given point in time and is not comparable to graduation rate cohort data commonly used by the Minnesota Department of Education (MDE). For example, students graduating from high school in 2011 may be members of different MDE graduation rate cohorts (2009, 2010 or 2011) depending on whether they took 4, 5 or 6 years to graduate.

College enrollment data included 966,000 fall term records from the Minnesota Office of Higher Education and 2.1 million enrollment records from the National Student Clearinghouse for all available years. College students are classified based on their first college of enrollment. Analysis was focused on the first two years after high school graduation. Due to data issues, analysis for the class of 2005 was incomplete and therefore excluded from the report. Unless otherwise indicated college enrollment data refers to enrollment in both public and private colleges.

Due to a change in source data for the report, analysis did not include data on developmental education credits taken by students during spring or summer terms or the subject of developmental education courses taken such as in math or reading. We plan to include these elements in future reports.

Caution: Data changes

Getting Prepared 2014 includes data from a new source – SLEDS, so you will notice some difference in reporting. Prior Getting Prepared reports relied on data from MnSCU and the University of Minnesota. This data was limited to public high school graduates enrolling in Minnesota public colleges and universities. In addition to previous reporting SLEDS data allows us to report on public high school graduates enrolling in public and private colleges in Minnesota and out of state.

The addition of SLEDS data also affects the counts of students reported. Readers and data users should be aware that the counts of students displayed in Getting Prepared 2014 will not exactly match the counts of students displayed in prior Getting Prepared reports. In order to facilitate comparison across years, enrollment and developmental education data by year (2006 to 2012) is included in all tables.

Why don't student counts match? Getting Prepared 2014 connects data across the K-12 and college systems for purposes of this report. This requires us to be very rigid as to when we can identify a student in K-12 as the same student later enrolled in college. The differences in student counts represent a small percentage of overall students. The counts differ for the following reasons:

- 1. Differences in Enrollment Data Reported: The student's high school graduation data differed between the data reported by the college and the data reported by the high school. For example, one student was reported as graduated from a public high school by the college but MDE reported the student had transferred to a non-public school and did not graduate from a public high school. These mismatches accounted for 1.8% of graduates analyzed.
- 2. Differences in Personal Information Reported: The student's personal information differed between the data reported by the college and the data reported by the high school. This includes differences in first name, last name, date of birth or MARSS number. If personal information does not match, SLEDS will not link the K-12 data with college data. This affected 2.5% of graduates analyzed.
- 3. No Data Found: The roster comparisons also identified a group of students whose information could not be located in either the K-12 data (if college data reported) or the higher education data (if K-12 data reported). One reason for the missing data is that developmental education data is currently limited to fall term in SLEDS, as noted on page 10. As data collection is expanded, the percent of students affected should decline. This affected approximately 1.5% of graduates analyzed.
- 4. Graduates Enrolling Elsewhere: The report now includes data on enrollment in Minnesota private colleges and universities and non-Minnesota colleges. One consequence of expanded data and reporting is that graduates may be enrolled in more than one college. For example, a student may enroll at Minneapolis Community and Technical College and at Augsburg College. The prior Getting Prepared report would have classified that student as enrolled at a MnSCU public two-year college. The new Getting Prepared report classified that same student as enrolled at a Minnesota private college. The new report classifies students based on their first institution of enrollment. This means that a group of students have shifted from the MnSCU count to other institutions. This affected approximately 1% students per year.

How did we figure this out? In the initial draft of the report, staff noted that fewer students were reported as enrolled in college and in developmental courses in the 2014 report as compared to the 2010 report. In response, OHE, MnSCU and MN.IT staff manually compared student-level rosters for a sample of high schools to identify graduates that MnSCU had previously reported as enrolled, both in college and in developmental education, who were not being reported with SLEDS data. That analysis led to a change in the procedure used to link MDE and OHE data. While the final data still yields different student counts as compared to prior reports, the overall data utilized for the report is more complete and consistent.

The data used for Getting Prepared analyzed college enrollment data for high school students based on the student's "Status End" code at a given point in time and is not comparable to graduation rate cohort data commonly used by the Minnesota Department of Education (MDE).

Appendix A. Postsecondary Enrollment* by District, School and Year of High School Graduation

The data used for Getting Prepared analyzed college enrollment data for high school students based on the student's "Status End" code at a given point in time and is not comparable to graduation rate cohort data commonly used by the Minnesota Department of Education (MDE).
